HISTORICAL NOTES

1817

The Presbytery of Grand River formed a Society for the education of young men for the ministry. Assistance was given to worthy students who were studying privately with ministers.

1820

The Erie Literary Society's School was opened in Burton.

1824

A board of commissioners was chosen to establish a literary and theological institution.

1825

Hudson was chosen for the site of the new college. A board of trustees, consisting of seven clergymen and seven laymen, was organized.

1826

On February 7 a charter was granted to the college by the state of Ohio. The first students, three in number, received instruction in December under a temporary tutor at Talmage.

1827

The first building called "Middle College," was completed in August; Western Reserve College formally opened in the autumn.

1830

A department of Theology was established.

1843

A department of Medicine was established in Cleveland.

1852

The department of Theology was discontinued.

1880

It was decided to move the college to Cleveland, changing the name Western Reserve College to that of Adelbert College of Western Reserve University.

1882

In September, Adelbert College was formally opened.

1884

The department of Medicine was organized as a separate department of Western Reserve University.

1888

The College for Women was established as a separate department of Western Reserve University.

GRADUATES AND STUDENTS

*Deceased.

NOTE.—The names of the members of each class are placed in two groups under each year, the former including those who were graduated and the latter the members of the class who did not finish the course.

As far as it has been possible, the occupations and places of residence of the graduates and non-graduates are given. There have been many changes and deaths of which no accurate knowledge could be obtained. It is to be hoped that those who use this catalogue will send notice of any such death or change of residence or occupation, to the Editor of the Alumni Catalogue, Adelbert College, Cleveland, Ohio.
